Home Care Assistance Announces 2014 Award Recipients

Home Care Assistance congratulates this year's award recipients, Frank Longo MD, PhD, Chair of the Department of Neurology at Stanford Hospital, and Cynthia Kenyon, PhD, Senior Scientific Advisor at Google Calico

(Palo Alto, CA – November 3, 2014) – Home Care Assistance, North America's premier provider of in-home care for seniors, is excited to announce the recipients of the company's 2014 Achievement and Caregiver of the Year awards. Dr. Frank Longo, Chair of the Department of Neurology at Stanford Hospital & Clinics, was presented with the Achievement Award in Brain Science for his cutting-edge research and leadership in neurology, particularly his work around Alzheimer's disease and dementia. Dr. Cynthia Kenyon, geneticist and Senior Scientific Advisor at Calico, Google's anti-aging startup, was presented with the Achievement Award in Healthy Longevity for her pioneering work in the molecular biology of aging. In addition, the 2014 Caregiver of the Year Award went to Dean Phillips of Home Care Assistance in Indianapolis.

"This year's award recipients exemplify our mission to change the way the world ages," said Lily Sarafan, President of Home Care Assistance. "Drs. Longo and Kenyon bring new meaning to 'groundbreaking' with their respective contributions to health-span and lifespan; and Dean Phillips represents the high caliber, human-centered care that enables happy, healthy aging at home."
